TERROR IN THE SWAMP

By Charles L. Polinski

Dave's friends, invited him to the "Swamp" where they had to return to, he had an extra day in which to bag his buck. But when leaving him they warned, "Stay away from Dead Stream Swamp!"

Only the hum of Dave's car disturbed the quiet of pre-dawn darkness as it sped north on US-27. The young driver was obsessed with one thought: A runaway that crossed the highway east and west in the center of the swamp, his friends were afraid of. Dave was not a coward! Why, he thought, should I hunt some place else because my buddies are taken? Guts, that's what it takes!

A heavily dressed foot eased from the gas as the car pulled off the highway and came to a slow, bumpy stop. Turning off the ignition, the determined hunter was immediately surrounded by darkness, and sounds which came from the swamp.

He sat a moment and listened to deep-voiced bullfrogs try and drown out the high-pitched tones of crickets and treefrogs. Far off from within the mysterious swamp came the lone, eerie cry of a night-hawk. Blue eyes accustomed to darkness saw shroud like veils of hovering inches above the marshy ground. A shiver crawled along his spine. Getting out of the car, he shouldered a quiver, strung his bow, then gently closed the door. Stopped by one foot was placed before the other until the nauseous smell of decayed vegetation was sucked into his lungs and left a brackish taste in his mouth. As he began to follow the runway, the darkness hung about him like an ominous cloud. Another chill ran the length of his spine, but still, he would not chicken out. A whisper of wings rushed through the tree tops and somewhere in the early gray of morn a broken limb creaked with protest.

An hour later the archer found a windfall along the runway and was himself comfortable while he waited for deer. Somewhere close, the persistent chatter of a squirrel welcomed the warmth of morning sun.

A chickadee flittered down from a cedar tree and poised itself on a limb five feet in front of Dave. The bird eyed him quizzically and was glared at in return. Finally he picked up a stick and pitched it at the little bird of feathers. A chirp of pain came from the bird as it fell earthward with broken wing. Getting up from the windfall, he stepped over to where the bird was lying. A shadow from his boot cast over the frightened bird, then slowly, his foot descended.

As he sat on the windfall, his head began to throb from the steady watch. Gently he rubbed tired eyes and began to watch again. There was a movement in the brush. His fingers twitched as he quietly brought the bow up in readiness. It was a porcupine, but too well protected by growth for a shot. A scowl covered the archer's face as he watched it wobble into deeper growth.

He lit a cigarette and quickly dropped it to the ground as he saw the blending form of a deer standing some distance away in the thick underbrush. With mounting anticipation he watched it cautiously walk toward the runway. Then he saw two more deer follow her. The muscles in his jaw began to reflex as he watched it come closer. From behind the does, a swamp buck stood waiting to see if his narrow crossed safely, then he too, would come out.

As Dave brought the bow up, he rew back and aimed along the shaft at the big doe in the rear. The buck moved, only then, did he hunter see the male. There was a sharp intake of breath as the archer saw the noble animal. Slowly his arms relaxed and he began waiting for the buck.

As the three deer meandered onto the runway and began following it, the buck flicked his white-fringed tail, then snorted. Slowly it moved a few feet and tested the air. A moment later it snorted onto the runway and stood there.

Just as the eight point buck touched the trail, Dave drew back on the bow and quivered along the shaft. Spots danced before his eyes and a tear dimmed his vision. The arrow hit between the heart and lung. The deer went down amidst a thrashing of legs, and before shaking fingers could no another arrow, the wounded buck got up and staggered into the thick brush. Nothing to do now, thought Dave, but wait an hour so it will lie down and become stiff and sore.

After the hour was up, the hunter walked over to where the deer had been wounded, and squatted down. His eyes studied the hoof-earths for sign. Flecks of bright, foamy blood dotted the ground as though the arrow may have penetrated the lung. A few scattered hairs were on the moss-covered ground. He began to follow the tracks in the direction in which the deer had gone.

The damp ground turned to mud and sucking noises could be heard as each foot was picked up. The staggering trail led further into the deep swamp where briar thorns made Dave's hands and face smart. A little further on, he found the feathered end of the broken arrow where the deer had brushed against a tree. He looked at the tree and found more air and blood. Sticking in his pocket, he pushed onward.

He glanced at his watch, three thirty. With his arm protecting his face, he began to hurry before darkness could settle. When circling large Norway pine, he saw the buck lying half propped against a fallen tree. Drawing a knife from its sheath, he walked over to it and said, "Wait till those chumps see this one. Tell me not to come here alone. Ha, that's a big laugh!"

As he field-dressed the deer, he laughed aloud and thought of all the bragging he was going to tell his friends. Unstringing his weapon, one end of the bow string was looped around the base of the antlers. The other end, he fixed to the bow handle. A twig snapped behind him.

His heart began beating furiously as more twigs snapped closely to the rear. A look of fear covered his face. Slowly he turned around and the face of fear twisted to one of sheer horror as his protruding eyes saw a pained, red-eyed bear standing over him with encircling arms. "MOTHER!"

Face To Face . . .

The coming visits of Premier Khrushchev to this country and of President Eisenhower to Moscow certainly reflect the enormous pressures for peace that come from the peoples of both the Soviet Union and the United States. The leaders of the two most powerful countries in the world are reflecting, in action, what amounts to an overwhelming demand that every avenue that may lead to peace be explored.

The cold war is not going to end overnight. Mr. Khrushchev is not going to suddenly wave the flag for capitalism, and Mr. Eisenhower is not going to embrace communism. But when men of opposed views meet face to face and talk in frankness the chance for reaching an understanding necessary to co-existence may be enhanced.

We have seen this at levels other than those of chiefs of state or high officers of state. American and Russian artists, scientists and industrial leaders have exchanged visits. In every instance, so far as one can see, the results have been healthy. A new measure of respect has been gained on both sides. So has a measure of friendship.

It would be foolish to expect too much from the Khrushchev - Eisenhower journeys. We must remain wary and watchful — as will the Russians. But these spectacular and unprecedented events hold hope for all the peoples of the world.

Folly And Tragedy . . .

More and more people — from sociologists to medical authorities, and from business leaders to government officials — are becoming vitally concerned with the practice of retiring workers at some arbitrary age, such as 60 or 65.

The life span has been greatly expanded. The percentage of elderly people in the population is swiftly increasing. And, thanks to medical progress and other factors, the elderly in large part, retain mental and physical vigor into advanced years. Under such circumstances, to forcibly retire men and women at some age, regardless of their abilities and energies and, as a result, becomes both folly and tragedy.

We all know of people who are making outstanding contributions to the world in old age. Herbert Hoover, for instance, has just become 85. He works a 10-hour day, is writing four important books, maintains a heavy schedule of appointments, and is full of the zest of life. Destiny marks few of us to become Hoovers or Churchills or Adenauers or Schweitzers. But millions of elderly people can perform valuable tasks. They need to keep usefully occupied. And the nation needs their services.

SOMERSET, KY., JOURNAL: "The weekly newspaper is uniquely an American institution. Nowhere else in the world will be found a system of journalism anywhere near the completeness of the American weekly newspaper. Nowhere else in the world will one find a newspaper primarily interested in Susie's birthday, nor a system that so thoroughly reflects the trivia of events that make up the life of all of us."

"Many have said over the years that the weekly newspaper would disappear because it is totally unnecessary. They have been proven wrong. The weekly has grown stronger and has become even more firmly entrenched into the American way of life . . ."

Interesting Events In Grayling 23 Years Ago

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO

September 10, 1936

Mr. George B. Schley, patent attorney, gave a most interesting talk on patents, copyrights and trade marks at the Kiwanis meeting Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Schley reside in Indianapolis, Ind., and have a summer home at Lake Margrethe, where they spend much of their summer leisure as possible. In his address the speaker told of the origin of patents and the evolution that followed to the present time. Patents are not easily obtained according to the speaker, and many times involve long and exacting effort in order to do so. The pitfalls for the aspiring inventor are many before he is able to gain the coveted patent for the protection of his efforts. Copyrights are easily obtained, and have the protection of the government, while trade marks are registered in Washington but otherwise in no way involve the responsibility of the government. Mr. Schley gave a very interesting talk.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Slater of Fort Wayne, Ind., visited over the weekend at the home of Milo Case.

Some forty friends of Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Keyport gathered at the Wolff farm Sunday evening to make their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary a happy occasion.

Doctor and his wife were invited to the farm under pretenses and were quite unaware that their host of friends were honoring them with a potluck supper. To the tune of "Here Comes the Bride", the plate procession, led by the bride and groom of a quarter century ago, passed before the buffet table and out to the lawn where the supper was served. Esbern Hanson proved a fine master of ceremonies and presented the couple with a bag of silver coins as a token of esteem from those present. This was a very fine tribute to Dr. and Mrs. Keyport who have been an active part of this community for these many years and have been rewarded by the fine satisfaction of having many friends.

The annual Sewell reunion was held Sunday, September 6, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Cross in Beaver Creek township. Among the guests was Mrs. Frank Peck, the oldest living descendant of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sewell. She is an own daughter of this couple. Mr. and Mrs. Jay Wells and children of Grayling were among those present. After a picnic dinner everyone went to the "Old Timer's" picnic.

Mrs. E. A. Jennings left Thursday for Bay City and is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Robert Gokke and family.

Misses Lucille Larsen and Madonna Cariveau spent the weekend visiting at Jackson, guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Louis Kroome.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hatwood drove to West Branch, Friday, and accompanied home their son Bobby Tiffin, who had been visiting relatives there for some time.

Frank Williams returned Monday from a three-week visit at Rosebush. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Williams, and Arnold Tibbitts, have been making their home there for some time.

Mrs. Sarah Buck and grandson, Walter Buck, Jr., returned home Sunday after spending most of the summer with her daughter, Mrs. Amos Buck at Houghton Lake. Miss Margaret Buck, who was employed during the summer at Higgins Lake, returned home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schofield and Miss June Schofield visited Mrs. Schofield's grandmother at Luzerne over Sunday.

Mrs. Roy Smith and son Jackie have returned to their home in Port Huron after spending several weeks visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hendrickson. They were accompanied by Mr. Smith, who came up to spend the weekend, and by Mrs. Edwin Carlson and daughter Donna, who will spend a couple of weeks there.

The Avalanche office has let a contract to Leif Isenbauer for building a basement for its office building.

Miss Irene Randolph spent the weekend at Grand Rapids, a guest of Stanley Stephan.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Peterson spent the weekend visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bromwell, at Lake Leelanau.

Ralph Anderson of Baraga has returned to his home after spending the past five weeks with his aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hanson at Lake Margrethe.

Ella and Margrethe Hanson of Lansing, and Dick Snyder of Saginaw, enjoyed Labor Day weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hanson at Lake Margrethe.

George Hilton and family spent the weekend visiting his parents at Mason. They were accompanied by Mrs. Hilton's sister, Miss Mildred Corwin, who will teach this year at the Holmes Street School.

James Linch of Mt. Pleasant, was a guest Sunday and Monday at the home of Mrs. Minnie Isenbauer.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Galehouse spent the weekend at Lawton, visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Enos Butemuth.

Hugh Cook of Alpena is spending a few days with his brother, Dr. J. P. Cook, before leaving for Alma Normal College.

Guests over the weekend of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Keyport were the Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Keyport.

What's in it for me, you ask, if a new industry locates here or one of our present plants expands?

A better chance at a better living.

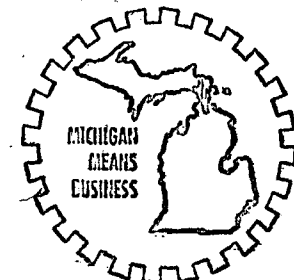

An industry payroll dollar is a wondrous thing. It comes into our community from outside as our industries make and sell their products in competition with other industries in other places. It gets bigger as it starts its journey through the community. It passes through many hands, touches many people. You would have to be a long, long way away not to have some of it rub off on you.

Increased economic security for you and your family . . . greater opportunity for you and your children . . . are in the industrial expansion of your community, every time.

National P.T.A. Sets Goal: Over 12,000,000 Members

More American children than ever before are enrolled in school this fall.

And more and more of their parents and teachers will be P.T.A. members by the time the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, concludes its annual October membership enrollment.

Through the efforts of the millions of parents and teachers already working in P.T.A.'s, children all over the United States are assured the closest kind of home-school cooperation on their behalf. Out of this working together of home and school have come higher educational standards, curriculums geared to the needs of today's world, more adequate school facilities and more effective parent education programs and, of course, good playgrounds, safe sidewalks, driver-training classes, and continuous health programs.

Mrs. James C. Parker, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, president of the National Congress, points to such P.T.A. achievements as "a significant factor" in the growth of the National Congress, which already ranks as the world's largest voluntary organization.

"A membership of more than 12,000,000 is our goal this year," she says, "and we intend to call on all the families we can to enroll new members—whether parents or teachers—other children with a real interest in children."

Work for All

The variety of P.T.A. activities, Mrs. Parker believes, "offers all members an opportunity to work on the many problems that involve the welfare and advancement of the nation's children."

Because the P.T.A.'s chief concern is for children, its action on their behalf starts even before they're ready for school.

A pre-school program emphasizes the child's health, his safety, and his sound emotional development. It may take the form of an immunization project like that undertaken in Tennessee's Washington County, where children started to school this fall protected against diphtheria, smallpox, whooping cough, and polio—because P.T.A. members took the lead in a county-wide fight against communicable disease.

—When a child takes the big

Standing beside the P.T.A. oak tree emblem, Mrs. James C. Parker, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, prepares to sow symbolic acorns in an effort to reach the goal of more than twelve million P.T.A. members to "call on all" during membership enrollment month.

steps into school, the P.T.A. offers Illinois high school students can look forward to receiving sound advice on future vocations, thanks to a P.T.A. guidance program that culminates in a day-long career conference.

—Because of its interest in children, the P.T.A. also offers adults many chances for constructive community work that will benefit children.

Through the years, the National Congress consistently supported kindergartens, promoted hot lunch programs in schools, alerted the public to violations of child labor statutes, improved the standards of treatment for juvenile offenders, and backed programs to focus attention on the urgent needs of the public schools.

Teens Get Attention

Teen-agers are helped, too, by P.T.A. programs designed to spur their development into responsible citizens. In Evanston,

A certified or cashier's check in the amount of $840.00, drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company, payable to bank or trust company, payable to the order of the Treasurer of the City of Grayling, must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder, to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid is accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the bonds. No interest will be allowed on the good faith checks and checks of unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned to each bidder's representative or by registered mail.

Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified opinion of Mill, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, attorneys of Detroit, Michigan, approving the legality of the bonds. The cost of such opinion shall be paid by the City. Bonds will be delivered at Detroit, Mich.

PARSONS HONORED
BY PHOTOGRAPHERS
ASSOCIATION

Ferris Parsons was awarded the degree of Master of Photography by the Professional Photographers of America, Inc., at the Annual Awards Banquet of the Association, July 29th. The banquet was held in conjunction with the P. P. A. Convention and Trade Show at the Statler Hilton Hotel, Los Angeles, Calif. The convention, begun July 25th, terminated Monday.

The Master's degree is one of the highest honors that can be bestowed upon a professional photographer by his profession. Under a point system administered by the 79-year-old association, the award can be achieved only after many years of consistently outstanding service to the profession as well as for general excellence of photographic artistry and craftsmanship.

The photographer earns merit points towards his Master's degree by having his work selected for exhibits at National P. P. A. conventions, 70% demonstrations and papers presented before national and state groups, for serving as a P. P. A. official and for instructing at the P. P. A.-sponsored Winona School of Photography, Winona Lake, Ind.

Of the 22,000 professional photographers in this country, only 375 persons have earned the title, Master of Photography.

Some 5,000 professional photographers from all parts of the United States and from foreign countries attended the convention which has been presenting a program of sessions dealing with the technical problems of portrait, commercial and industrial photography. During the last 3 years Parsons has lectured at 5 State Conventions and is currently the president of The Professional Photographers of Michigan. His wife, Maxine, and employees, Sandra Schultz, and four of the five Parsons children were at the Awards Banquet to see the presentation.

The Parsons and Miss Schultz returned early in August from a 6,000 mile camping trip through the western states. They visited the Badlands and Black Hills of South Dakota, Great Salt Lake and Zion National Park in Utah, and the National Park and Yellowstone National Park as well as other points of interest in California.

IN MEMORIAM
In memory of James Guy Leverton, who passed away August 1, 1941, and Pearl Almira Leverton, who passed away August 31, 1955. Your gentle faces and patient smiles with sadness we recall. You had a kindly word for each, and died beloved by all. The voice is mute and stilled the hearts that loved us well and true. Ah, bitter was the trial to part from two so good as you. You are not forgotten loved ones, nor will you ever be. As long as life and memory last we will remember thee. We miss you now, our hearts are sore. As times go by we miss you more. Your loving smiles, your gentle faces, no one can fill your vacant places.

Plan Bowling Clinic To Teach Youth

Mass teaching methods will replace strikes, spares and splits when adult bowlers from the northern section of Michigan gather at Cherven Lanes in Roscommon on Thursday, Sept. 10th, to learn how to teach youth. The fundamentals of bowling, conducting this class in "teaching techniques" will be Charles Hall, Midwest Field Representative of the American Junior Bowling Congress. All adults interested in working with youngsters in the bowling field are invited to participate in this bowling clinic as the proceedings are entirely free.

Crawford County Avalanche
Thursday, September 10, 1959

Hall's instruction clinic will cover an entire day starting at 10 a. m. and ending about 4:30 p. m. The morning session will be a training school in the "mass teaching methods" developed by AJBC. After a buffet luncheon, the movie, "Young America Bowls", will be shown, followed by a lecture on the program of the AJBC, bowling principles and a showing of all AJBC emblems and trophies furnished by AJBC members. With 225,000 of America's youngsters already enrolled as members, the American Junior Bowling Congress ranks as one of the nation's largest youth organizations. The development of good coaches, instructors and supervisors is of prime importance to take care of the ever growing number of youngsters wishing to participate. This clinic will train local adult bowlers to take charge of the local junior leagues to be formed. All attendants are requested to bring their bowling ball and shoes as they will be active participants in the clinic.

Today...10 P.M. THE NEW-SIZE FORD STARTS ON ITS WAY TO YOU!

The Falcon, the New-Size Ford, already is the most thoroughly tested and proven new car in history. Today this new Ford Falcon starts EXPERIENCE RUN, U.S.A., over every mile of numbered U.S. highway.

This is not a test run in the ordinary sense of the word. For in its 8 years of development and over 3 million miles of proving, the Falcon has already passed and repassed every kind of test that could be devised.

It's been dust-tested, heat-tested, and endurance-tested on the test track at Kingman, Arizona. Wind-tested and rain-tested in the 800 mph wind tunnel at the University of Maryland. Shock-tested, curve-tested, brake-tested. Noise-tested, paint-tested, stability-tested, service-tested... everything-tested on Ford's own proving grounds. The Falcon has already proved to engineers that it takes anything they can dish out.

Now, Experience Run, U.S.A. will show you what the Falcon can do over your kind of roads.

How many miles to the gallon? Records will be kept of every drop of gas used. Better gas mileage? The Falcon will average up to 30 miles per gallon!

On October 8, the New-size Ford will be at your Ford Dealer's... for you to experience. See your Ford Dealer today for more information on the Ford Falcon.
